COUNTRY	Activity at Oppeln (Opole)
		25X1
EVALUATION	PLACE OBTAINED	25X1
DATE OF CONTEN		25 X 1
DATE OBTAINED	DATE PREPARED 22 August 1955	25X1
	SURES (NO. & TYPE)
	This is UNEVALUATED Information

- 1. Prior to winger 1954, the former Nachrichtenkaserne at Oppeln (P 51/J 17) was occupied by Polish armored force personnel. For several years the installation had been occupied by these units. Only tanks with revolving turrets, probably of type T-34, were observed at the installation. Soldiers in olive-drab uniforms served their regular period of duty. Some of them wore red cap ribbons.
- Units with various heavy weapons were seen at the barracks installation which was located at the southwestern perimeter of Halbendorf (P 51/J 17), west of ul. Domanskiego. Tanks with revolving turrets of type T-34, about 15 armored reconnaissance vehicles and three-axle trucks towing 76-mm field guns and guns of heavy caliber, type of which could not be identified, were observed at the installation. In automn 1954, the unit returned to their post on coming from summer exercises. Tanks of a heavier type than the T-34 were seen. It could not be determined where these tanks were stationed. Numerous trucks of type ZIS-151 and GAS 63 were parked at the Halbendorf Kaserne. All soldiers observed wore olive-drab uniforms with red cap ribbons. There was no activity at the headquarters of the installation.
- 3. Prior to fall 1954, the installation near Stefanshoeh, west of ul. Pruszkowska, was occupied by motorized infantry personnel. The soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with red service color. About 10 light AA guns and 57-mm and 76-mm AT guns mounted on four-wheel chassis were observed at the installation.
- 4. Prior to late 1954, the 63d Inf Regt Kaserne in the east section of the city was heavily occupied by Polish motorized infantry personnel. The soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with red service color. Numerous motor vehicles but no heavy weapons were seen at the installation. The installation had been occupied by these units for years. 1

25X1

NODEX

is so ned the

	, pp10100 1 01 1 to 1000 2000, 10,100 1 01,100 1 00 000 10,100 000 0
		25X ²
	CONFIDENTIAL	25X
	- 2 -
	- 2 -
5•	Prior to late 1954, a Polish headquarters or some other military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinoguedzka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers club was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2
	The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers amilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plac Focha).
6.	During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln.
7.	The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed.
8.	For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with leng trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed.
1.	Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmathat apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.	25X1
2.	Comment. According to this and to other reports, the headquarters of the 10th Mecz Div is located in the former German financial office.	25X′
		25X1

25X1

CONFIDENTIAL

5. Prior to late 1954, a Polish headquarters or some other military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciusski (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogdska (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous joeps. A Polish officers'club was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodska. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers manifestallies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Plate (Plac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/5 92). In autumn, thay returned through the ul. Nyas Juzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1				053
5. Prior to late 1954, a Polish headquarters or some other military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kossiusski (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogistak (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers'elulw was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskamer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers'antiles west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Flate (Flac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In attum, they returned through the ul. Nysa Juzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. Por about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soddiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1			CONFIDENTIAL	25>
military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogedzka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polith officers'ejub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodska. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers and lies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Plate (Plac Pocha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turara (P 51/3 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1			- 2 -
military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogidzka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Folish officers'ejub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodska. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officerstantlies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plao Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turara (P 51/3 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Eyes Luzyoka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1			•
military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogidzka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Folish officers'ejub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodska. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officerstantlies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plao Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turara (P 51/3 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Eyes Luzyoka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1
military office was located in the former German financial office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogidzka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Folish officers'ejub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodska. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officerstantlies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plao Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turara (P 51/3 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Eyes Luzyoka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1
office at the crossing of ul. Kosciuszki (northern part of Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogiodaka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers'club was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officersamilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Flatz (Plac Fochs). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/3 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Mysa fuzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meet Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmathat apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the		5• Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinogischka (western section of Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers' glub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers manilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapaner-strasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish XEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turara (P 51/8 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Mysa Juzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1 seen in front of the building. Many officers were seen at the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers's lub was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskamer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers amilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Plats (Plac Pocha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer comps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mesc Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanised personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.	1-4		Moltkestrasse) and ul. Stalinog dzka (western section of the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular traffic included numerous jeeps. A Polish officers'club was installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officersFamilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstramse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa fuzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red osp-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mesc Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmsthat apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanised personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.			Kattowitzerstrasse). Sentries wearing red service color were installed in the building just north of the former German Handwerkskammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officer anilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plao Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapaner- strasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmathat apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.			the headquarters but no general was identified. Vehicular Handwerkakammer. A guard house was located east of ul. Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officermanilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plac Fochs). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nyes Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmathat apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.
Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not known. 2 The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officers amilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plao Pocha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Osimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Juzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worm by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were olive-draw uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worm.
The large multiple-story buildings had been built for Polish officer# anilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Platz (Plac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapaner-strasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1			Stalinogrodzka. The occupation of the komendatura was not officer#Tamilies west of the Oder River at the former Breslauer Plats (Plac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KEW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1			known. 2
Platz (Flac Focha). 6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapaner-strasse). Prior to late 1954, no Folish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nyss Juzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Folish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmsthat apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.
6. During 1954, individual Soviet military persons whose activity and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Zuzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.		• and billets were not known were seen in ul. Ozimska (Malapanerstrasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation in the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.			riate (riac rooma).
strasse). Prior to late 1954, no Polish KBW units were stationed at Oppeln. 7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Poltsh armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the		6.
7. The location of the summer camps was not known. In spring, the units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Luzycha. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were clive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.
units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Juzycka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.
units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa (P 51/S 92). In autumn, they returned through the ul. Nysa Juzycka. No units with horse-drawn vehicles were observed. 8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn.		7.	The location of the summer camps was not known. In enring the
8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirmathat apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the		•	units left their quarters by road in the direction of Turawa
8. For about two years, no blue-gray uniforms such as those formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with leng trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently olive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the formerly worn by Polish armored personnel, were seen in Oppeln. All soldiers wore olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the loth Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the			No units with norse-drawn vehicles were observed.
All soldiers were olive-drab uniforms with long trousers, laced shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the		8.
shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers were disciplined and had a good reputation with the local residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the residents. Since the Soviet units had left Oppeln, no essential change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the			shoes, buckled leggings, and red cap-ribbons. The soldiers change in the occupation had been observed. 1. Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known. All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Mecz Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the
All installations mentioned in the reported are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the
All installations mentioned in the reported are occupied by large units of the loth Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the
All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large units of the 10th Meez Div. The individual units of this division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently elive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the		1.	Comment. All information reported from Oppeln is known.	25X division could not be identified. Other reports confirms that apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the			All installations mentioned in the report are occupied by large apparently clive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray uniforms have been introduced with armored and mechanized personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the personnel. The color of the cap ribbon has not yet been identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the			apparently elive-drab uniforms instead of the old blue-gray identified. It is possible, however, that the old blue-gray uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the uniforms are still worn. 2. Comment. According to this and to other reports, the Administrate separation of the control to bot the street
Administrate management of animal control to hot and affine		2.	Comment. According to this and to other reports the	25X
neadquarters of the 10th Mecz Div is located in the former German		-•	headquarters of the 10th Mecz Div is located in the former German	_3, 25

25X1